THEORY FOR REFORM.

The Democrats throughout the country are growing hoarse, cying reform. Since they were throttled in New York, and their ill-gotten plunder choked out of them by an outraged public, they have suddenly got a streak of honesty, and want the world to believe them sincere in their loud demands for reform. Just what is meant by reform is beyond our comprehension. The revenue of the nation was never more honesty collected, its obligations to pay were never more faithfully met; its expenditures were never more economically managed; its accounts were never more closely scrutinized; i's finances never more prosperous; while the public debt speaks volumes in its reduction of over $300,000,000 in less than three years. And yet a corrupt party whose stealings would bankrupt any nation but our own, insist on reform. Reform in what? Reform in the, the compliance of the Administration. That is what they want. Place the Government in the hands of the Democracy, and the long prayed for reform is brought about. Give such men as Tweed and Hall an opportunity to plunder the nation as they did the city of New York, and our Democratic liberals will be satisfied. The people are not yet ready for this peculiar reformation. They are satisfied that the Republican party has dealt honestly by the Goverment, and that its glorious past will be reflected in a still more glorious future. Democracy has been tried and condemned, and no matter in what shape it again appears, popular judgment will be against it.

THE POSSUM POLICY.

The Caucasian, a Democratic organ in Missouri that has made Brick Pomeroy's sheet appear quite respectable in comparison with its own filth, comes, boldly to the support of Col. Schurz and his "liberal" party. How shall we secure reform? yells this frantic fire eater to his Democratic brethern Listen to his reply in a late issue of his paper.

"The only way under heaven, is by defeating the base and brutal Tumblebug of the White House—by scouring him and all his foul brood of conspirators, highwaymen, booted and-spurred assassins, and liberty-squelchers, back to the vile kennels and tanyards, from whence they sprang! Can Democracy do this? There's not an ass in rustic stable from Maine to Mexico, but knows it's impossible. Democracy can't carry one State in all the North;—without the premission of Ulysses, and his baytreted hirelings, can't carry a congressional district in all the South! Six States, whose whole electoral vote would be counterbalanced by New York and Ohio, are our Democratic all. To succeed, we must sweep away 15,000 Radical majority in Indiana; 25,000 Radical majority in Ohio; 30,000 Radical majority in Pennsylvania, and 10,000 Radical majority in New York. No Democratic ticket—no ticket bearing even the faintest flavor of Democracy—can touch one vote, of all these huge majorities with a forty furlong pole.

The Liberal Republicans—Radicals who are in favor of reform—who are opposed to the Galena Borr, to despotism and corruption—propose to put up some such ticket as Gratz Brown and Horace Greeley. It will, as a mighty whirlwind, sweep away half the whole Radical vote of the country. And with the entire Democratic strength cast solidly for it, the downfall of Ulyssianic filth and tyranny is sure! The dawn of a better day will be ushered in, on the Ides of next November. And God helping us, liberty and true Republicanism will once more find a home in a reunited Sisterhood of Soverign States."

This is Democratic philosophy. The leader of that corrupt party hopes to rise into power on the backs of liberal republicans. They think the reform movement will hide their past sin, and conceal their present rascality. Come under whatever disguise they may, the loyal millions will know them, and in the future, as in the past, will put their seal of condemnation upon them.

—A gang of Chinese laborers in Louisiana, who had taken umbage at the conduct of the negro overseer, surprised their employer, one morning recently, by marching in solemn file up to his mansion, bearing on their shoulders a dark object. This proved to be the obnoxious foreman, securely bound with many cords, whom they deposited on the piazza, nearly frightened to death, with the words: "Too muchee nigga, too muchee."

NEW ENGLAND THEN AND NOW—PROTECTION AND FREE TRADE.

We are indebted to the publishers of the American Working People for the fine engraving, and description of same, which appears in this issue of the REPUBLICAN. This popular workingman's journal has attained a circulation of 30,000 copies, and is acknowledged to be the ablest tariff publication in the United States. It can be obtained of news dealers, or from the publishers. Address, Iron World Publishing Co., Pittsburg, Pa.

There is presented in the accompanying cut a scene which occurred sixteen years ago in Massachusetts and upon the left the same place as it is to be seen to-day. We quote from an old file of an eastern paper as follows:

A POPULAR OUTBREAK.

"Yesterday afternoon the crowds which had been hanging around Market street, by force of instinct perhaps, congregated in the vicinity of the lower docks. The fact that several thousand barrels of flour were stored in the large warehouses near there was well known and has given rise to considerable smothered indignation among the idle classes, of which we are sorry to say the number is daily increasing. Flour has been held at $12 per barrel for two months past, and two days ago when J. & R. Pease, the well known grocers, went to make a purchase of three hundred barrels the owners re used to sell at less than $13. Mr. Pease informed us personally that he would sell the flour at $12, its cost when he got it, and we so stated yesterday, but he refused to accede to this immoderate exaction and the consequence is that many families are helpless to supply their immediate wants. This was the subject yesterday of discussion on Market street among the idlers and they gathered about the store-houses where the flour was kept. The owner of most of it, Mr. —— had just returned from New York and was about driving to his mansion with his family when he was met by a portion of the crowd, who on recognizing him and remembering that he was the cause in a measure of their suffering, began to hoot at him. The noise soon attracted others and in a few moments the street was almost impassable because of the crowd, including many women and children. The carriage was stopped and the crowd boisterously demanded the keys of the warehouses and threatened, if refused, to break them open. Mr. ——, to pacify the crowd, offered to give them ten barrels, and left his carriage to do so, fearing danger to himself and family if he refused some concession.

The crowd allowed the carriage to pass on, and being rapidly augmented by members who did not know that Mr. —— proposed giving a few barrels, began yelling madly, 'bread—bread.' It pushed on and he began to run to escape being trodden under foot. This created the wildest, excitement and sticks and stones were hurled after him. Two or three gentlemen passing were met by the crowd and forced to fly before it, and one of them was struck by a missile and felled to the ground and severely injured, near the Infirmary. The police were soon in pursuit and succeeded in rescuing Mr. —— from the fury of the populace. A strong guard was placed over his property."

Flour at $13 per barrel and no work—men idle—women sick—homes empty—works in ruins—these were the results of free trade during these dark days.—Nor were such scenes confined to eastern cities, but they were realities throughout the west. Great mills and factories which afforded employment to thousands of men, women and children were forced to stop. Lecture halls and libraries were turned into Infirmaries and soup houses as seen in the cut.—In a bed of sickness, were forced into charity hospitals for care and support and when they died they were buried at the public expense. In the picture before us a coffin is being thrust by a policeman and attendent into a rough wagon. It will be hurried to the graveyard and its forgotten occupant, without tears of friends, thrust into a hole. On the other corner we see a billiard saloon where "Free Trade and Sailors' Rights and whisky three cents a glass," are to be had in abundance. The works in the distance are in ruins. A ragged mother and child leave their cheerless home and wander out in quest of work or food but find neither. The enraged people look on warehouses filled with flour and corn which they dare not touch and cannot buy. These are facts—facts. We know these things to be true. We have seen such immense buildings full of flour burn to the ground. We have seen floor after floor fall in with their weight of burning flour while a hungry people stood by. That was sixteen years ago, and as though Providence had cursed the spot, there is not to this day a building upon it.

Look at this picture more closely. It is a picture—a truthful picture of what we were under free trade. Let us think about it. This picture may be a reality to us some day and it will be if we do not rise up and stop the progress of the sentiment growing in favor of it. Is it not strange people want to bring such a state of things upon them?

Free traders tell us that duties are a tax on consumers, that if we take duties off, we get imports that much cheaper. This looks as if iron and steel and hardware and woolen and cotton goods are cheaper in England than here, and that if we let England send to us them free of duty we can have them cheap as they are in that country. We believe—let them send all we want. Their iron, their steel, their hardware, their woolen and cotton goods are sent over in ship loads and they fill our store shelves and warehouses.

Our own mills and factories make little or nothing for there is no need that they should. What then!

Do the owners of these goods sell them at cheap English prices? They do not. They have shut down our mills, they have driven our working people into idleness and they then ask the highest price they can exact. They sell their imported goods for more than we could make them for at home.

The people have no money and cannot buy. They cannot sell their labor for bread because the English shippers want only money and they go on and draw the last dollar from our pockets. During the last free trade epoch, banks were attacked, stores, in many places, broken open and the spirit of lawlessness greatly increased. People thought it was the fault of capitalists, but it was not, they only took advantage of the people. If men cannot get work they cannot buy and if we have free trade they can have no work. England could ruin the United States sooner by selling her iron at a cent a pound than she could by over-running it with an army of a million men.

We are tired of this picture; let us look on the next. It needs no description. Every industrious workingman in the land can personate those here represented. Instead of a soup house and infirmary we have a library. Instead of a billiard saloon and free trade and sailors' rights and whisky three cents a glass, we have a dry goods store. Instead of deserted mills we have mills crowded with life and prosperity. Instead of an idle, hungry, enraged mob filling the streets we have what we see before us. Is this not truth itself? Is there exaggeration here?

Men in high places are willing to return to free trade again. Thousands of men are voting to return to it. British manufacturers are expending large sums of money in teaching people to believe free trade will bring cheapness. They know they are deceiving the people. If the farmer pays five cents more for getting his horse shod on account of the advance of iron, he thinks he will be ruined and forthwith he votes to reduce the tariff. He does not stop to think that he is getting $1.60 per bushel for all the wheat he can raise.

Workingmen of America, you will never be safe until you teach your public servants that a protective tariff shall be the permanent policy of this country.

It is a lie that manufacturers are monopolists. It is a lie that duties on products which can be manufactured in America are a tax on consumers. It is a lie that a reduction of duties cheapens products.

There are a class of men who hate to see workingmen surround themselves with comforts. They call themselves revenue reformers. The reforms they would make would fill every city in the land with excited, hungry mobs, idle every mill and factory and free-land. There is danger of it because the enemies of the people are working hard to create a sentiment against protection. There is danger of it because workingmen are not united. There is danger of it because British manufacturers would gladly give a hundred millions of dollars to prostrate American industries. They could soon make us pay them for all they lost. They mean to do it if money will accomplish it.

Do the workingmen remember upon what a slender thread their safety hangs?

Do the men who work in our mills before hot furnaces, thundering rolls, flying wheels, the men who work in our busy factories, the men who toil in our thousands of smaller workshops, the men everywhere who toil, do they know that the vote of a body of men sent by them to Washington, can turn them out of their mills and shops and factories, from their cultivated fields, from their comfortable, happy homes, to wander idle, helpless, poverty stricken in search of food? They can, and unless workingmen are true to their interests they will do it.

Protection during the past twelve years has peopled the prairies of the west. It has built the railroads which cobweb the land. It has built the elegant cities and towns which sprinkle the broad land.

Men cannot study this truthful picture too closely. We love to gaze on beautiful paintings in our galleries of art, but this picture has deeper meaning and deserves greater study than any works of art. The people themselves can determine—must determine which life they shall live—POVERTY OR PLENTY.

THE DEMOCRATIC SCHEME.

That the Liberals are largely indebted to the Democratic press for whatever success has thus far attended their movement, is admitted on all sides. For months past they have been working with harmonious energy, actuated by the same purposes, and equally determined. Their war-cry has been "reform in the administration of the Government," but the real object in view, place and power. Having taken such a live interest in the Cincinnati Convention, worked it up with might and main, and encouraged it in the most generous manner by indicating a possible united and hearty support, to the expectant Democratic leaders the nomination of Greeley and Brown on the platform presented, was like a terrible blow on the forehead, and the effect was similar. Stunned for the moment, they reeled about and struck out blindly. The nominations were savagely denounced as absurd and ridiculous, and the idea that they would be supported by the intelligent, pure, highminded, patriotic Democracy, declared preposterous. The movement from which so much had been expected, had proven unworthy of confidence, and further co-operation with it was not to be thought of. The duty of the Democratic party was plain and imperative—a straight ticket on a straight platform.

This was the verdict of impulse. The disappointment and indignation of the shrewd and calculating leaders was so great, that they could not, for the moment, restrain themselves; consequently, their feelings mastered their judgment. But with the disappearance of the first flush of indignation, reason returns. We now behold these ambitious gentlemen meekly preparing to take back the hard things said within the past four days. They are now adjusting their glasses for the purpose of taking a calm and critical view of the situation, in the fond hope of arriving at a wise conclusion. Perceiving the error of their first opinions, they are determined not to be thus upset again; another such blunder and all will be lost. They confidently believe a golden opportunity to be within their reach—if—but—provided—Well, perhaps these threatening obstacles may be safely removed with prudence and energy.

These watchmen on the Democratic tower have discovered, First; that the most influential portion of the Irish press heartily endorses the nomination of Mr. Greeley, and that the indications are the Irish vote of the country ordinarily cast for Democratic candidates, could easily be secured in his behalf. Second; that, notwithstanding their wide difference with the Tribune philosopher on what is to them a very important question, there is evidently a growing disposition among the Germans to support him in preference to some man who has taken no decided position upon one side or the other. Third; that the negroes of the South revere the name of Greeley next to that of Lincoln, and being in a great degree unable to comprehend the inconsistency of his position, and the danger of the situation, with proper "management" they would blindly cast their ballots as humble tokens of deserved gratitude. Fourth; that his position upon the amnesty question would bring to his support solidly the Southern Democracy. Fifth; that his position upon the the tariff question, which is a virtual pledge that, if elected President of the United States he would, upon this, as all other questions, obey the expressed will of the people, would attract to his support many who have heretofore been his most bitter and uncompromising antagonists.

We are not surprised, therefore, at the determination of the shrewd Democratic leaders to take advantage of the opportunity presented. They recognize the fact that the spectacle of the Democratic party supporting its "most hated and conspicuous opponent," for the Presidency, would be the most ridiculous ever witnessed in this or any other country. But they know that while Mr. Greeley is strong, well nigh invincible, as an editor, that as a politician he is weak, uncertain and pliable. On the brim of the old white hat, under the rallying cry of "Greeley and Reform," they would expect to carry into the Lower House of Congress a sufficient number of straight Democrats and weak-kneed, vacillating, ambitious Republicans, to give them a working majority in that body. This accomplished, they would expect to virtually take the helm, by so embarrassing the Administration that it would be forced to carry out their designs.

These are the facts, and this the programme now under consideration. The scheme is founded upon deception and trickery, but is none too base for the men who are engineering it. "Success at any price," is their motto, and if they should succeed, and elect Mr. Greeley, it would be the most unfortunate political event since the election of James Buchanan in 1856. We lay bare the scheme, that Republicans may see their duty the more plainly; that they may see not only the folly, but absolute danger of countenancing this wild "liberal" bolt, in the least degree.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

THE Democrats may not like it, but they can't help themselves while Mr. Greeley lays down the law to them concerning whether they will take him or put up a Democratic candidate. Mr. Greeley, not over modestly, says:

"It is barely possible that the Democrats will play the suicidal part assigned them by their implacable enemies; if we judged only from the recent past, we might also pronounce it probable. But the indications from every side are so unanimous and overwhelming that we are confident that no intelligent, dispassionate observer would insure the nomination of a Bourbon Democratic ticket for less than ninety-five per cent. premium."

Mr. Greeley then tells all hands, 'Liberals" and Democrats, just what they can get by taking him, and concludes thus:

"For these and kindred reasons, we are morally certain that the Liberal Republicans will maintain and extend their organization, uphold their banner, and support their candidates to the end unless the Democrats shall see fit to drive them off the course—which they are not likely to do."

Is not this saying that a separate nomination by the Democrats will "drive" Mr. Greeley "off the course?"—Pittsburg Commercial.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

BELLEFONTE, PA.

THE OLD MEN'S GRANT MEETING.

BY JOHN H. YATES.

Well, wife we've had a meetin' at the school house on the hill,
And I was choosen chairman to keep the old men still,
But I found I couldn't do it; each man down his cane would plant,
And shout with all the voice he had, "I'm goin' in for Grant!"

We talked about the past four years, what great things had been done;
How the nation's debt had melted like the snows before the sun;
We said to keep it meltin', do a better thing we can't,
Than stick and hang together and all go in for Grant.

We looked through our spectacles upon the naked facts,
Then drew the veil of charity o'er gl.nt Sumner's acts.
We said, "We like you, Sumner, but go your way we can't"—
Then made the school house echo with a rousing shout for Grant.

We didn't have much charity for Trumbull or for Schurz;
They stand around the party gate, a pair of snarling curs;
Their speeches cannot harm us, nor make Grant toe their mark;
He's an old Galena tanner and knows how to handle bark.

We talked about Grant's smokin'—we thought it no great sin;
To vote that out of office we might vote a worse one in;
And, seein' we were smokers, 'twouldn't do for us to rant;
So we lit our pipes together, and all smoked the health of Grant.

In the days of the rebellion, none of us could go to fight,
But we read from morn till evening how he battled for the right;
He has been the Nation's servant in the days of peace and war,
And treason melts before him like the smoke of a cigar.

After I'd adjourned the meetin' I gave each a friendly grip;
We, every one, determined to stand by the war tried ship:
We will not topple over, we will not even slant
But put our canvas down firm and strong, and stand up straight for Grant.

THE MIDNIGHT MARRIAGE.

BY N. P. DARLING.

He couldn't help loving her, because she was so very, very lovely. Yes, she was the most beautiful woman that ever lived. I do believe. Mr. Augustus Bullinag told her so, and, not satisfied with one statement of the fact, he was constantly reiterating it while in her presence.

It was evening in Baytucket. Mr. Augustus Bullinag and the most beautiful woman that ever lived were seated side by side in Mrs. Migglestone's parlor.

"Althea," said Augustus, "you're a most magnificent creature. Your hair is the most beautiful pilose collection I ever beheld; and your eyes—O! Althea, your eyes would burn a hole (or a pair of 'em rather) right through the hardest heart human breast. [illegible]

"I suppose so," said she.

"I know so," said he.

"Then why don't they burn a hole through Mr. Alderbug's heart? O! why don't they burn a dozen holes right through him?" she cried, with considerable vehemence, throwing her head into Mr. Bullinag's bosom and bursting into tears.

"O, you bloodthirsty but surpassingly lovely creature, don't you know that they have pierced his heart? In fact my dear Althea, that's just what's the matter.

"I know it, I know it," moaned Althea. "O, if I were only ugly!"

"Or if I were only rich," sighed Bullinag.

Now, madam, that you may understand the cause of all these tears, and this sighing and moaning, it becomes necessary for me to make you acquainted with Mr. Josiah Alderbug. He was fifty years of age, an old bachelor, and O! so ugly that every dog in the street would run away the moment he appeared in sight. But then he was immensely rich. Nobody knew how many thousands he was worth. He owned land and houses, and stocks and bonds, and held mortgages upon half the property in Baytucket.—Everybody that wanted to borrow money went to Mr. Alderbug, and if they could furnish good security he was always ready to accommodate them.

And thus it came about that the late Mr. Migglestone (father of the most beautiful young woman that ever lived), in building his modest cottage by the sea, found that he lacked a few hundred dollars to complete the structure, and as the house was good security, he experienced no difficulty in obtaining the required amount from Mr. Alderbug, giving him a mortgage upon the whole.

The house was hardly completed when Mr. Migglestone died. It was a terrible blow to his wife, but having been accustomed from her girlhood "to suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune," she bore up under this last and greatest affliction with commendable spirit, and as it was necessary that something should be done immediately for the support of herself and daughter, nothing else offering, she opened a boarding house on a small scale, and for the first year everything went well with her.

Among her boarders was our friend, Mr. Augustus Bullinag. He was employed by the great Griswig Furnace Company as book-keeper, and managed to keep his blood circulating upon the enormous salary of five hundred and fifty dollars per year.

Perhaps Augustus ought to have known better. Perhaps you will say that he ought to have restrained himself, soaked his head, plastered his feet with mustard, done anything, in fact, but just what he did do. But how could he help himself? That's what I should like to know.—There he was, living under the same roof with the most beautiful young woman that ever breathed, sipping the same coffee, eating the same hash, wearing out his molars on the same beefsteak. We all have our weakness. He was tempted and he fell. Yes, he fell in love with his landlady's daughter and that, too, upon a salary of five hundred and fifty per year, with hardly more prospect or hope of a "rise" than Lucifer and after being

"Hurled headlong flaming from the ethereal sky
With hideous ruin and combustion, down
To bo tomless perdition."

But to return to Mr. Alderbug, who still held the mortgage upon Mrs. Migglestone's house. The first year the interest had been promptly paid, but, alas! it was already due for the second year, and the widow was unable to make the regular payment. She had been unfortunate. Althea had been sick for a long time during the summer, and the savings of months had to go to pay the doctor's bills.

Mr. Alderbug called upon the widow. The lady stated the case, and asked for an extension of time. Mr. Alderbug's ugly face grew black, and he muttered something about foreclosing; but at that moment the widow's daughter passed by the open door, and the cloud of discontent lifted from his ugly face. He smiled and turning to the distressed lady, made this proposal: If Mrs. Migglestone would give him her daughter for a wife, he would burn the note and cancel the mortgage.

"Take time to consider," cried Mr. Alderbug, observing the lady's surprise—"You can talk it over with your daughter to-night, and to-morrow evening I will call for my answer. I'm not handsome, and I'm no very young, but it is something surely to be the wife of the richest man in Baytucket. You know the old saying, that is better to be an old man's darling than a young man's slave. Ask your daughter to be my darling. Good-day madam," and Mr. Alderbug took his hat and pranced out of the house with as light a step and as sweet a countenance as a hyena's when seeking his dinner in his native wilds.

I think I will not attempt to describe Mrs. Migglestone's feeling; neither shall I enlarge a great deal upon the scorn with which the fair Althea received Mr. Alderbug's proposal from her mother's lips; but O! what agony rent the bosom of the son of the Bullinags when he heard of Mr. Alderbug's proposal. It was awful, grand, fearful and sublime.

"O! that I could coin my heart into dollars!" he cried, shaking his ambrosial [illegible]

But he couldn't you see; and more than that, he knew that he couldn't raise a dollar and a half without pawning the clothes which he wore.

Could a fond lover be placed in a worse situation? I should rather think not, and Bullinag was of the same opinion.

However, it is under such trials that great souls exhibit their greatness. And had Bullinag been born under less auspicious stars, we might never have known what stuff there was in him.

I have told you how he raged, and wished for impossible things in his first great agony, but by a mighty effort, such an effort as only a Bullinag could make, he calmed himself, and taking his accustomed seat by Althea's side, began soothing her troubled soul.

You remember, ma'am, that I told you how Althea was sighing and moaning, and washing that she could perforate the corporeal frame of her would-be husband with her glances.

Bullinag held her loved form pressed close to her bosom. Suddenly his countenance brightened.

"I have it!" he cried. "You must consent to marry him."

"Never!" returned Althea.

"But would you give up the house—"

"Could I give up you, Augustus?" she cried.

"Do you love me?"

"O, you know I do!"

"Very well; you must follow my instructions, then. Trust me, darling."

"I will, Agustus."

"Listen, then. To-morrow evening Mr. Alderbug will come for his answer, and you must see him alone."

"O, I can't Augustus."

"But you must, my dear. You must see him alone, and tell him that your mother will not consent to the proposed marriage."

"Of course she won't."

"But," continued Bullinag, unheeding the interruption, "tell him that if he cares enough for you to elope, to carry away and marry you without your mother's knowledge, let him be at the gate with a carriage the next night at twelve o'clock."

"But I don't want to elope. I don't want to be carried away without mother's knowledge. If I must marry him, I want to have a wedding, at least."

"I'll tell your mother all about it, my dear, this very night. As to the wedding, why you shall be married in church. You can tell him this, with the rest, that he must make arrangements for the marriage to take place in church. He must have the ring in readiness, and some one give you away."

"But I won't be given away by anyone but you, Augustus."

"Trust me, darling."

"Why, how can I, when you are going to make me marry that horrid man?"

Mr. Bullinag kissed her sweet lips, and then proceeded to assure her that it was all for the best; and so well did he succeed, that when they party for the night Althea went to her room with a smile on her face and a song on her lips.

Our hero held a long conference afterwards with Mrs. Migglestone, and then sought his couch with a light heart and an easy conscience.

The next evening Mr. Alderbug called at Mrs. Migglestone's, and was agreeably surprised to find himself in the presence of the beautiful Althea, instead of her mother; but he was much more surprised when the fair creature proposed an elopement.

He objected to this course very strongly at first. He said that he wouldn't insist upon a wedding, as he was a quiet man, and didn't care to make a free exhibition of himself at the hymeneal altar; but, as Miss Migglestone very well knew, he never had married, and probably never should marry again; therefore, seeing that it was to be but once in a lifetime, he would like to have the ceremony performed by daylight.

Well, Althea insisted, and her aged lover resisted for some time. They had both been accustomed to having their own way, and it was very hard for either to yield; and as Althea couldn't Mr. Alderbug had to. Yes; he consented to the elopement at last, and then the beautiful young lady kissed him and bid him good night.

The world rolled round and carried this miserly and hard-hearted old lover, and the beautiful young woman whom he was hoping soon to clasp in his arms, around with it. Again it was night in Baytucket. The clock in the church belfry struck twelve, and ere the last stroke had died away upon the air, Mr. Alderbug, true to his appointment, appeared upon the scene, driving an antiquated steed, and seated in a chaise that was almost as old as its owner.

Mr. Alderbug stopped in front of Mrs. Migglestone's house, the gate opened softly, and a female figure, bundled up to the eyes and closely veiled, came out to the carriage.

"Get in," whispered Mr. Alderbug, throwing back the buffalo robe, while his teeth chattered with the cold. "Get in, my dear. I'm too old to be very gallant and besides I'm half frozen. If there's any romance in an elopement, I'm sure I can't discover it upon the coldest night in January."

"I think it's splendid," whispered the lady, as she sank back into the seat and

"Hudup!" growled the shivering lover slipping one arm around the lady's waist.

The Rev. Mr. Gotobed had been secured to perform the marriage ceremony, and he was now waiting in the dimly-lighted church for the appearance of the happy couple. The sexton, a discreet old gentleman, and one of Mr. Alderbug's friends, and miserly old bachelor kept his company.

The sound of carriage wheels was heard without and directly after the happy bridegroom entered the church and with the lady upon his arm.

I shall not linger over the ceremony, which was performed with the utmost dispatch, although the bridegroom made it rather amusing by his many blunders; but the moment he knew that he was a married man, he turned toward his wife to salute her with a kiss.

She raised her veil which during the ceremony had hidden her face, and greeted her husband with a smile of angelic sweetness.

"Ha!" exclaimed the bridegroom.

"Ho, ho!" cried the sexton.

"Sold!" ejaculated the bachelor friend.

"The Widow Migglestone, by—" He could say no more. With a groan he fell at her feet in a swoon.

His friends carried him home and his wife followed in company with Mr. Bullinag, who had been in waiting outside the church.

"Take her away," moaned Mr. Alderbug, the moment he opened his eyes and saw his wife standing beside the bed.—"Take her away. I'll give her the house and ten thousand dollars beside if she'll promise never to show her face to me again."

Mrs. Aldermug, being a sensible woman, accepted the terms and retired.—The next day the ten thousand dollars were paid into her hands, and the first thing she did with it was to set Mr. Bullinag up in business.

A few months later there was another wedding in Baytucket; but this ceremony was performed by daylight, and Mr. Bullinag and the most beautiful woman in the world were made one flesh.

As for Mr. Alderbug, he is a confirmed woman-hater and particularly bitter against widows.

A western orator thus winds up a definition of eternity—"Why, my friends, after millions and millions of years had rolled away in eternity, it would be a hundred thousand years to breakfast time."

A man who has had his leg broken by a patent flax-carder says that mash-shinery is the most appropriate name that could be given to the darned thing.

Vesuvius April 1.

A Naples correspondent of the Washington Sunday Chronicle writes under date of April 1:

The great mountain has been for the last year slowly heaping the Naples-ward slope with vast accumulation of lava, without doing serious damage to habitation or fruitful field. The eruption has been considered by the inhabitants scarcely worthy of notice, but to a stranger it was sufficiently interesting.

We paid our first visit in March. It was a lovely afternoon as we drove out through Portici, took up guide and torch-bearers, and wound up the steep zigzags through the vineyards of Resina. The distant city lay, fair and white, upon the curving bay, growing more comprehensible as we wheeled higher and higher. The road to

has been reopened through an ocean of black, twisted, writhing folds of lava, coiled up like heaps of enormous serpents or heaped like walls of surf suddenly transfixed to stone. As we wound among the dark masses, under the deepening twilight, we began to hear a dull roar, followed by a crash like the thunder of artillery. It was the discharge of stones from the crater, followed by a stream of fire that spilled over the brim of the mountain toward the Atrio di Cavallo, or valley between the two peaks. At the observatory we left the carriages and pursued the way on foot along a safe and easy path lighted by

and in less than an hour we had arrived at a wall of blazing lava. The stream ran directly across the valley and barred the way. Here we seated ourselves to dine. The mountain thundered above, its side glowed with rivulets of fire, and the flaming mass before us gave the light of day. We went through the usual number of coin impressions, the usual amount of extortion and cheating with a quiet mind, and lingered long upon our unique experience of a convenient and accessible eruption. As we took our reluctant way back to the carriages the peak enveloped itself in a fairy cloud, from behind which the solemn thunder came ever and anon like the voice from Sinai, and the full moon came upon the mountain to dispute honors with its splendor. The effect of

as it wound down the road, was weird in the extreme. The torch-bearers streamed on in advance, flashing in and out of the black zigzags of the old lava like imps on a mission. The busy city was left in the slumbers of midnight, and our amateur excursion was marred by [illegible] quarrel over guides, bargains, and buona mano, without which one would scarcely feel that the expedition had been legitimate. It was an amateur excursion, and my own representation of its facility induced a young friend, whose experience of Vesuvius had been of the roughest, to renew the experiment with the returning

MOONLIGHT.

No one would have believed the change wrought by one month's steady overflow. We arrived safely, as before, at the Hermitage, and set forth with a lacrity upon the farther path. In about ten minutes we had arrived at a confused scene of hillocks, black and apparently pathless, along which lay our way. We insisted that the guides had mistaken the road. "Oh, no!" they replied; "it is only the lava of yesterday." Hoping to find the obstructions but transient, we wondered on to the heap. To one who had never seen

let me say that it resembles nothing so much as piles of coke, if only coke were tougher, sharper and heated very hot. The surface cools quickly, contracts, and becomes a shifting pile, that yields at every touch, catches at every fragment of drapery, cuts your boots like a knife, and burns where it does not cut. We passed several parties cooking the traditional eggs beside the path, or raking beneath the surface to plunge sous and other models into the hot stratum below. Stumbling, sinking, falling, crawling, we eschewed, as long as possible the assistance of the guides, but the hillocks of lava grew interminable. The further we went the higher they were

and at last, panting and exhausted, we sank into a black valley, almost terrified at the vision before us, almost hopeless of return. Before us rose the mountain, its sides laced with fiery bands—in every direction around us spread glowing masses, smoking and glaring like a very Inferno. No trace nor landmark pointed the way to a safe return, and the grandeur of the tremendous scene only served to augment the sense of fear and helplessness. How would these guides, the very mildest of them a model for a bandit, ever conduct us back across such

A TANGLE OF FIRE!

How would our lacerated feet ever bear us up and down those endless hills of destruction? The hopelessness of the alternative gave us a desperate courage, and we addressed ourselves one more to the indescribable toil, moralizing as we went upon the folly, the stupidity, the danger of such an expedition, cutting our feet, burning our hands, and tearing our garments to shreds, and, after all, coming down ignominiously to the necessity of being supported by

OUR GRIMY ATTENDANCE.

How they ever learned their way upon a sea of coal is a mystery, but they brought us at last to the very nook where our wiser friends sat ensconced—out of sight of the mountain, it is true, but out of sight of its horrors likewise. As we wended our way once more down the winding road we bade an emphatic adieu to Vesuvius and its eruptions, and hailed with a new sense of satisfaction the great city and the moon-lit sea. The long, fiery trail of the volcano came sweeping to our feet, side by side with the track of the moonbeams, as we sped along the silent shores, but our "dreamful eyes" were too heavy with bodily weariness to take account of the gorgeous contrast. It is a splendid sight, a near view of Vesuvius in eruption, but we are not going again.

A New Daddy's Letter.

DEAR SISTER:—I now take my seat and set down to take this opportunity to inform you that I am "daddy," that is, I suppose I am, for Abbie has got a nice, fat baby, and we hope these few lines will find you enjoying the same great blessing. Now this is to be strictly a business letter. Firstly as I said before, Abbie has got as nice a baby as ever made up faces. Nextly, I have swapped away old Buckskin, and I think I have got a pretty nice horse; it is a little girl and weighs nine pounds (I mean the baby), and is just as fat as butter and has got a strong pair of lungs; she is red and got a bobtail (the horse I mean), and white stripe in her face, and is a good driver; she has got blue eyes and a dimple on her chin (I mean the baby now), and just the prettiest mouth that ever was (of course) and judging from her teeth, I should think she was about six years old (I mean the horse now); she is sound, smooth and kind (I mean the horse or baby either now), and the doctor says she is the fairest he ever saw, without any exception (he means the baby). I got about twenty-five dollars to boot (not on the baby, though, for the boot was on the other foot, and two or three sizes larger, as near as I can find out.) I am going to harness the horse now, and go after mother she was born last Wednesday night twenty minutes past nine (I hope you don't think I mean mother or the horse I mean the baby.) She is getting along nicely, and if she don't have any bad luck she will get along fustrate. She is rather windy, and they say it is a sign of the colic, (I mean the baby.) I hope it is, for the nurse [illegible] colic babies never die. She talks about her doze (nose), as she takes snuff (the nuss I mean now.)

There, I've been reading this over, and I see plainly that I ain't fit to write. The amount of it is I am flustrated. I am daddy, and that accounts for it, so you must excuse me this time. Yours,

SAM DADDY.

SMALL VS. LARGE FARMS.—The papers generally, but more especially the Southern papers, speak of the comparatively prosperous state of small farmers as against those owning large farms. Small farmers, generally frugally minded, study small economies, and, having their business under their own control, thoroughly understand their necessities, and are mainly industrious and successful. But large farmers, necessarily leaving much work to hired men and dealing with larger amounts of money, fail to keep all the threads of their web well in hand, and some occasionally drop or become tangled, while the small items of economy are overlooked, and the consequence is, failure, debt and borrowing.

DURING our late war there was a young man in the army who did not join of his own free will. He had been drafted. He was not a brave young man; quite the otherwise. One day during a bloody battle, our young friend showed such a large white feather that the captain was obliged to threaten him with his pistol in order to keep him from running away altogether. Then the youth began to cry. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself," said the captain; you're no better than a baby." "I with I was—a—baby, "blubbered our hero, "an' a gal baby at that."

REMEDY FOR "KNEE SPRUNG" HORSES.—G. C. Weeks, Tiskilwa, Ill., writes to the Western Rural that he has cured many "knee sprung" horses by having them shod with heel calks very short, and toe calks long. The horse, thus shod, should have his legs bathed twice a day, for a few days, with salt and vinegar, and should not be driven or ridden fast down hill.

VERY modest.—The editor of a country paper, having received a bank-note detector, returns thanks, and modestly asks for some bank-notes upon which to test its accuracy.

FOREIGN affairs.—Mrs. Partington is anxious to know whether this Don Juan question between England and America has anything to do with poor Lord Byron.

☞A complete file of the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN may always be found at the offices of GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Advertising Agents, 40 and 41 Park Row, New York, who are authorized to represent us in that city.

COL JOHN W. FORNEY is in this city. He opposes the recent manipulation of the Pennsylvania State convention by a ring of politicians, and severely censures the action of the convention in presuming to choose delegates to the national convention of the party against the rules and the precedents of the party. At the same time, he announces his determination to stand by the regular Republican organization, and condemns the Cincinnati movement in the severest terms. —Washington Republican, yesterday.

We do not know in what light the Washington politicians regard the course of Col. Forney, as he "announces" it, but it strikes us that he is playing a double game, and that there is something in reserve which he has not "announced." In this State we are under no apprehension that his course, whatever it may be, will endanger the success of the Republican party. The influence of his paper outside Philadelphia is very limited—in truth the masses of the party are not in the least influenced by it—and in the city, those who have the best knowledge of the run of politics, laugh at the idea of its controlling the action of a single Republican beyond, perhaps, a few personal friends whose esteem for Col. Forney exceeds their attachment to the party. But the misfortune is that outside the State the true position of the Press is not so well understood. It is regarded by cotemporary Republican journals as a leading and most influential Republican paper, and Col. Forney as an adroit and far-seeing politician who would not be likely to commit the faux pas of refusing support to the State ticket if there was the slightest probability of its success. Entertaining this opinion of the Press, they are misled by its bold denunciation of the action and policy of the State Convention, into the belief that there is division in the Republican ranks in this State, threatening defeat, and that a remodeling of the ticket is essential to success. Nothing could be further from truth. But that don't alter the case, since, relying upon the Press as a true exponent of Republican sentiment, they have adopted its ideas. Now, there is nothing more certain than that there will be no reassembling of the State Convention and consequently, no remodeling of the State ticket, or any other part of the proceedings of the Convention. The ordinary course has been pursued, the party rules followed, and the result is before us. The only question with Republicans is whether to support or oppose it. Already the masses of the Republican party have proclaimed in favor of the ticket and will support and elect it in spite of all the efforts of a few disappointed men—would-be leaders and dictators. Defeat of the State ticket on the eve of the Presidential election might and probably would be fraught with the most disastrous consequences. Col. Forney chooses to refuse the support of the Press to the nominations. He has a right to do so—no one questions it. But having taken that position which puts him as far outside the party as Horace Greeley—he can no longer be consulted with safety as to its future policy or interests. He has taken upon himself a fearful responsibility, and he should be held to a strict accountability. When he unfurls the banner of opposition to the recognized organ of the State Democracy—the convention representing every county and every shade of personal preference within the party—who can place confidence in his professions of friendliness towards the National Administration and his repeated declarations that he favors the renomination and re-election of President Grant? When we consider the position he has assumed in the contest for State supremacy, and that if he possessed the influence he pretends to hold, he might bring defeat upon the party in October and greatly endanger or even defeat it again in November, we confess that we are not of the number of those inclined to avail ourselves of his counsels in party matters or put confidence in professions that are flatly contradicted by actions.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

—Mrs. Laura D. Fair, the San Francisco murderess, has applied for a change of venue for her second trial.

—William McGonnigle will represent Blair county in the Democratic State Convention, instructed to support Gen. Cass for Governor.

—The Tionesta Republican says: "We fail to find a supporter of the Cincinnati nomination in this place, either Republican or Democrat."

—The Corry Republican advocates the nomination of Col. C. B. Curtis, of Erie, to succeed Hon. G. W. Scofield in Congress.

—The Lancaster Intelligencer says it has authority to say that Hon. C. R. Buckalew will accept the Democratic nomination for Governor, if tendered to him.

—The New York Bar Association report having found sufficient evidence to warrant the removal of Judge Curtis, of the Marine Court, and will present it to Gov. Hoffman.

—The Harrisburg State Journal says: "Without an exception the Republican press of this district advocate the renomination of Hon J. B. Packer for Congress."

—Six thousand men and boys and two thousand women and girls are employed in Birmingham, England, in the brass foundry trade. Six thousand hands are engaged in the button trade.

—A live frog was lately found in the middle of a beach tree, eighteen inches through, at Putney, Vt. He must have been a prisoner there for fifty years, and is therefore a pretty old frog.

—The Indiana Progress says: 'From present appearances the fight for the nomination for Congress, will be between gentlemen from Westmoreland and Fayette counties, at the primary election in this county."

—About eighty different German Schutzen organizations of New York and vicinity have organized for an excursion to Germany on the 29th of June, to attend the fourth German National Sharpshooting Festival.

—The jealousy with which the various European powers regard each other at the present time is perfectly obvious. People are prognosticating another war during the coming summer, nor does it seem entirely improbably.

—A plan for pensioning faithful school teachers after twenty years service has been adopted by the Brooklyn Board of Education, and the Legislature has been asked for authority to put the plan in operation.

—The Springfield, Mass.; Republican has returns from one hundred and sixty-two towns of which fifty-three are in favor of licensing the sale of ale; beer, etc., and one hundred and nine in favor of prohibition.

—Colonel W. E. Cameron, editor of the Petersburg (Va) Progress, and member of the State Conservative Executive Committee, has resigned his editorship in consequence of a disagreement with the proprietors of the Progress, who disapproved his advocacy of Horace Greeley for the Presidency.

REPUBLICAN STATE PLATFORM.

Below will be found the Resolutions adopted by the convention which placed in nomination Gen John F. Hartranft, Hon. Ulysses Mercur, Gen. Harrison Allen and the entire State Ticket. The Resolutions were written by that clear headed and efficient Republican—Russel Errett, Esq., and have the true ring. Republicans, workingmen and all honest Democrats, can safely stand upon this platform. Let them be carried out in good faith and there need be no fears entertained in regard to the salvation and perpetuity of the government either State or national:

1. That we reaffirm our devotion to the principles of the Republican party, and our belief that the continued existence of that party is necessary to the maintenance and success of those principles. The grand and fundamental idea of the equality of all men in political rights is not professed by any other party, and can be sustained faithfully only by those who are sincerely committed to it.

2. That the adoption of the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the Constitution of the United States has not been sufficiently acquiesced in by all to render certain and secure their permanent incorporation in that instrument, and hence the administration of the government can safely be entrusted only to that party which is heartily, and beyond question, committed to them, and the policy necessary to put them into successful operation.

3. That we are now, more than ever, called to sustain the policy of national protection to American industry. If the laborer is worthy of his hire, and a fair day's work entitles the worker to a fair day's pay, we must continue to throw the protecting arm of the government around those who toil for their daily bread. The protective policy alone makes labor contented and capital secure. It renders employment certain, and pay ample and satisfactory; whilst free trade means that our laborers and mechanics must either work for lower wages or that our factories should be closed through foreign competition, and the workingmen of the country deprived of employment.

4. That the public lands belong to the people, and should be reserved for the people. We, therefore, pronounce most decidedly against any further appropriation of the public lands in behalf of corporations or individuals. All lands not sold according to law should be open to preemption and actual settlement.

5. That we demand a continued adherence to the policy hitherto pursued, under Republican auspices, in our State and in the nation, of a steady and gradual reduction of the public debt. The interests of the people require that the most rigid economy should be practiced in the administration of both the Nation and the State governments, and that taxes should be reduced in both as rapidly as is consistent with the honorable maintenance of the public credit, and the certain extinguishment of all the public debt.

6. That we are earnestly in favor of the earliest possible removal of the duties on tea and coffee, and urge the prompt passage of the bill for that purpose now before Congress.

7. That we heartily approve of the act of Gen. Grant in giving a trial to the plan of civil service reform. We demand that the plan, or any other that may be substituted in its place as better, shall have a fair and unembarrassed trial, that every effort shall be made to secure competent men for public service, and that honesty and incorruptibility shall be deemed qualifications as essential as competency and intelligence.

8. That the Republican party has given full evidence during the past eleven years of its ability to administer the government honestly, faithfully and successfully. It has, within that time, maintained the honor of our National flag at home and abroad; preserved the Union from disruption and restored it in its integrity; secured to all classes and conditions of men the rights given to them by their Maker, and having proclaimed liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof, has given to that proclamation the full effect to which it was entitled; and we therefore, in its name, claim from the people a continuance of their confidence, and fearlessly challenge their scrutiny into its acts.

9. That we point with pride to the record of Gen. Grant's administration of the National Government. Not only has the weight of internal taxation been almost wholly removed from the people's shoulders, but three hundred millions of the national debt have been paid off—a result never before attained by any other people under like circumstances, and for which we are indebted to the rigid honesty strict economy and sterling integrity which the President has brought to the administration of a national affairs.

10. That we present his name for renomination to the Presidency confident that the people will again rally to the support of the man who so nobly fought their battles; who, under the guidance through its struggle to maintain its existence, and who has since so successfully administered the affairs of the government as to command general admiration, at home and abroad.

11. That we will stand by the government in the foreign policy so firmly marked out and adhered to by President Grant. The honor of the nation, we feel, is safe in his hands, and the flag under which he never suffered defeat, will not be dishonored while he is kept in the front.

12. That we congratulate the people of Pennsylvania on the final accomplishment of the call for a convention to revise and amend the Constitution of the State and we earnestly urge upon our friends to see that delegates are chosen in their respective districts committed to the policy of incorporating in that instrument a clear and decisive prohibition of special legislation.

13 That we hereby declare our opposition to every effort to withdraw from the sinking fund of the Commonwealth, either by substitution, exchange or otherwise any of the bonds, securities or moneys now pledged to it, and through it to the payment of the public debt of the Commonwealth, and our inflexible determination to preserve the same, inviolably, for the fulfilment of the Commonwealth's obligations.

14. That the oil producing, mining, lumbering and manufacturing interest of the State require protection from the efforts of dangerous combinations, and that such laws should be enacted by the General Assembly of this Commonwealth as will protect said interest, both in their development and the transportation of their productions to market.

15. That the thanks of our party are due to Governor John W. Geary, under whose lead our principles have twice been successfully vindicated in Pennsylvania; the State debt has been reduced during his administration; our soldiers orphans have been carefully cherished and educated; and our laws have been efficiently and wisely enforced. Under the necessity of parting with him as Governor, in conformity with the Constitution of the State, Governor Geary carries with him in his retirement the heartfelt wishes of its people for his future prosperity and happiness.

16. That we present with peculiar pride and especial confidence of their success, the names of Gen. John F. Hartranft for Governor, Ulysses Mercur for Supreme Judge, Gen. Harrison Allen for Auditor General, and the gentlemen this day named for delegates at large to the Constitutional Convention. They are all men worthy of an active and ardent support at the hands of the Republican party, and we call upon our friends throughout the State to rally as one man to secure their triumphant election.

17 That the President of this Convention, in connection with the candidates this day nominated for State officers appoint the chairman and one Secretary of the State Central Committee, and that the State Committee be made up on the basis adopted last year, and the two years preceding.

BUTLER COUNTY.

[From the Butler county, Kansas Times.]

We are continually receiving letters of inquiry about Butler county, and to answer all questions propounded to us we issue this circular.

The first settlements appear to have been made in 1857 or in 1858, on Walnut river But owing to the drouth of 1860, and the unsettled and exposed condition during the four years of war succeeding, their was no substantial growth until about 1864, when Butler county was organized.

The county as at present constituted, is 42 miles north and south, by 33 east and west. Since 1864 the county has been filling up rapidly, by a hardy, industrious population; representing almost every State and nationality.

GEOGRAPHICAL SITUATION.

Butler is one of the last organized counties in south-western Kansas. About 100 miles south of Topeka, and 125 miles west of the Missouri line being due west of Ft. Scott, or Bourbon county. It lies between the 37th and 39th parallels of latitude, the center being about on the Forth Carolina.

The climate is mild and pleasant, being exempt in a great degree from extremes of heat and cold. During the "heated term" of 1868, the range of the thermometer was lower by several degrees, than in many places further north. The winds which blow almost continually, temper the heat of the summer, and render the nights cool and pleasant, while at the same time they refresh and invigorate the system.

The air is pure, dry and clear. The dryness makes colds almost unknown. —The clearness of the air is such, that persons coming from other States find themselves utterly unable to judge distances, and consequently greatly underestimate them.

TOPOGRAPHY.

The surface of the country is rolling prairie, and intersected with numerous streams of excellent water, running southerly and emptying into the Walnut river, and eventually into the Arkansas river.

The prairie is in some places nearly level, but nowhere without slope enough to drain the surface water Elsewhere it is undulating, sometimes rising into knolls, and at the streams some bluffs are found.

There is very little waste land. It lies entirely west of a chain of semi-mountains, known as Flint Hills. Almost the whole acreage can be made available for agricultural purposes. There are no swamps or other accumulation of stagnant water in the county, and hence no malaria, and except in the timber along the streams, musketoes are unknown.

The soil is rich and deep, adapted to the growth of almost every variety of grain and fruit. The bottom lands are very rich black loam; the uplands are generally what is known as mulatto soil, the very best for small grain and fruit, contrary to the common opinion, (which seems to have been obtained without even the most superficial experiments.) The upland prairie is rich and wherever it has been cultivated, has produced abundantly. It needs only good farming to enable to withstand the dry weather sometimes experienced.

WATER.

We have an abundance of pure cold water. Good springs abound. Wells are from 15 to 40 feet in depth, with a splendid quality of unfailing water. In the streams the water is remarkably clear, pure and sparkling. Even in very low water, the water does not stagnate, but is fed by springs in the bottoms of the streams, which render the water cool, and excellent for stock.

NATURAL PRODUCTIONS.

The supply of timber is more abundant than in almost any other portion of Kansas. It is found along all the natural courses, but perhaps more abundant on Walnut river. The varieties are, walnut hackberry, oak, sycamore, cottonwood etc. If the fire are kept out, the area of timber would be increased very rapidly.

Of the wild fruits there are, plums, grapes, gooseberries, etc., in abundance.

MINERALS.

Coal has been found in various places, but it is yet undeveloped. Limestone abounds in many places; splendid quaries can be opened, and an exhaustless supply obtained for building houses, barns, etc.

HEALTH.

As for health, this county can compare favorably with any other county in the world. Chills and fever are found only among those that have settled near the streams. Fever and consumption are almost unknown.

STREAMS.

Walnut river is the most important. It rises in the southern part of Chase county and runs a little west of south, very nearly through the centre of the county, and on in the same direction nearly through Cowley county into Arkansas river. It is about one hundred miles in length, and along its whole course an abundance of good timber is found, and as fine bottom lands as the world can afford.

Whitewater and Little Walnut are most important tributaries of the Walnut. The Whitewater rises in the northwestern part of the county, and flows southeasterly until its junction with the Walnut river. The west branch of the White-water, Rock Branch, Dry Creek, Gillian Creek, and some others, are tributaries of Whitewater.

The following are some of the tributaries of the Walnut: Coal Creek, Duracan Creek, Satchel Creek, Beamis Creek, Bird Creek, West Branch, Turkey Creek, and Little Walnut

PASTURAGE.

This county is unsurpassed for its magnificent pasturage. Cattle and horses fatten very rapidly in the spring showing that the grass is particularly nutritious. Indeed horses and cattle are often wintered without either hay or grain and except when the snow happens to lie on the ground a few days, can do very well.

Eldorado, the County seat of Butler county, is in the geographical center of the county and is the largest and most prosperous town in the south west.

There are over two hundred and fifty buildings on the townsite and a large number contracted for and in process of construction

One flouring mill is already completed with a capacity for grinding all the wheat and corn raised in the county. Arrangements have been fully made for the construction of a large water mill at this place, to be completed by next harvest. The streams in the neighborhood of Eldorado have been bridged with substantial Iron bridges so that the town is accessible from all points as all times. A Court house has been built and paid for. Every branch of business is represented here so that goods can be bought as cheaply as at points farther east. The town is organized under the statutes of Kansas as a city of the third class, with Mayor, city Council etc. It is possible to become quite excited over the marvelous rapidity with which our young town is growing into a city; but you need not deem us extravagant when we predict that at least 200 good buildings will go up here within the present year. There is no town in the State that has had a more rapid and permanent growth. It is destined to be the commercial town of Southwestern Kansas, and will, within two years, have two railroads leading to it.

The WALNUT VALLEY TIMES is the official paper of Butler county.

SUGAR BEETS.—The culture of sugar beets is rapidly spreading in the United States. Not only is a permanent marked for them about to be established in the best sugar factories now springing into existence, but they are found to be excellently adapted as food for stock. Milch cows, fattening oxen, sheep, and hogs, all devour them redily and thrive on them satisfactorily. The climate is adapted to them, and in their culture no methods or implements other than those needed for the ordinary culture of turnips or rutabagas are required.

To Debilitated Persons,
To Dispeptics,
To suffers from Liver Complaint,
To those having no Appetit,

To any with debilitated digestive Organs

such as Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness or Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Flattering at Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and difficult breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, &c., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.

Hoofland's German Bitters.

A Bitters without Alcohol or Spirits of any kind.

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure Juices, or VITAL PRINIPLE OF ROOTS, HERBS, and BARKS, (or, as medicinally termed, Extracts,) the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore in one Bottle of this Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons of ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c., used in this Bitters are grown in Germany, their vital principes extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, when they compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against all others: no desire for stimulants can be induced from their use, they cannot make drunkards, and cannot under any circumstance, have any but a beneficial effect.

Hoofland's German Tonic.

Was compounded for those not incined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases when some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the tonic contains one bottle of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the bitters is overcome forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate, and containing the medicinal virtues of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1,50 per Bottle, which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulant used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article? A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients; and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound, and be benefitted by it, will most certainly be cheated.

Who would ask for more Dignified or Stronger Testimony?

HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD, formerly Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania at present Member of Congress from Pennsylvania, writes:

PHILADELPHIA, March 16, 1871.

I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in case of debility and want of nervous action in the system. Yours, truly,
GEO. W. WOODWARD.

HON. JAS. THOMPSON, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania,

PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1867.

I consider "Hoofland's German Bitter" a valuable medicine in case of attacks of indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my own experience of it.
Yours, with respect, JAS. THOMPSON.

HON. GEORGE SHARSWOOD, Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1, 1868.

I have found by experience that "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a very good tonic, relieving dyspeptic symptoms almost directly.
GEORGE SHARSWOOD

HON. JAS. M. WOOD, Ex-Mayor of Williamsport, Pa.

I take great pleasure in recommending "Hoofland's German Tonic" to any one who may be afflicted with Dyspepsia. I had the Dyspepsia so badly it was impossible to keep any food on my stomach, and I became so weak, as not to be able to walk half a mile. Two bottles of Tonic effected a perfect cure. JAMES M. WOOD.

REMEMBER

THAT

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES

Are the medicines you require to purify the Blood, excite the torpid Liver to healthy action, and to enable you to pass safely through any hardships or exposure

DR. HOOFLAND'S PODOPHYLLIN,

Or Substitute for Mercury Pills.

TWO PILLS A DOSE.

The Most Powerful, Yet Innocent Vegetable Cathartic Known.

It is not necessary to take a handful of these Pills to produce the desired effect; two of them act quickly and powerfully, cleansing the Liver, Stomach and Bowels all impurities. The principal ingredient is Podophyllin, or the Alcoholic Extract of Mandrake, which is by many times more powerful, acting and searching than the Mandrake itself. Its peculiar action is upon the Liver, cleaning it speedily from all obstructions, with all the power of Mercury, yet free from the injurious results attached to the use of that mineral.

For all diseases, in which the use of a cathartic is indicated, these pills will give entire satisfaction in every case. They NEVER FAIL.

In cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia and extreme costiveness, Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic should be used in connection with the Pills. The tonic effect of the Bitters or Tonic builds up the system. The Bitters or Tonic purifies the Blood, strengthens the Nerves, regulates the Liver, and gives strength, energy and vigor.

Keep your Bowels active with the Pills, and tone up the system with Bitters or Tonic, and no disease can retain a hold, or ever assail you.

Recollect that it is DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES that are so universally used and highly recommended; and do not allow the Druggist to induce you to take anything else that he may say is just as good, because he makes a larger profit on it. These Remedies will be sent by Express to any locality, upon application to the PRINCIPAL OFFICE, at the GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, 631 Arch St., Philadelphia.

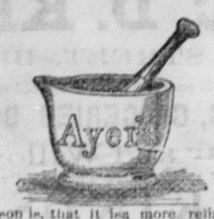
Aver's Cathartic Pills.

For all the the Purpose of a Laxative medicine.



Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use in every county and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill.—The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them: those who have not, knows that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood and we need not publish them. Adapted in all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterous drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh, and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions from the stomach' bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, BILLIOUS HEADACHE, SICK HEADACHE, JAUNDICE or GREEN SICKNESS, BILLIOUS COLIC and BILLIOUS FEVERS, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back or Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For DROPSY and DROPSICAL SWELLINGS they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

Wednesday Morning, May 15th, 1872.

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

We would call the special attention of postmasters and our subscribers to the following synopsis of the newspaper laws:

1. A postmaster is required to give notice by letter, (returning a paper does not answer the law,) when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office, and state the reasons for its not being taken; and a neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publishers for is payment.

2. Any person who takes a paper from the post-office, whether directed to his name or another's, or whether he has subscribed or not, its reponsible for the payment.

3. If a person orders his paper to be discontinued, he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether it be taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until the payment is made.

4. If the subscriber orders the paper to be stopped at a certain time, and the publisher continues to send it, the subscriber is bound to pay for it. If he takes it out of the post-office. The law proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.

5. The Courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima-facie evidence of intentional fraud

FROST was plainly visible in this section on Tuesday morning.

RUNAWAYS.—We have had several runaways the last week in Beliefonte. Nobody hurt, however.

P. T. BARNUM's mammoth show will exhibit in Williamsport, May 25th, Lock Haven, May 27th, and Altoona, May 28th. Advertisement next week.

LOCALS.—Locals are about as scarce as hen-teenth. It is impossible to secure reports or reporters. Why is it, that the people of the townships do not report?

MUZZLE THE DOGS.—There are said to be more cases of hydrophobia at present than were ever know before. There is no known cure for this dreadful malady, and prevention is, therefore, all the more essential.

THE mountains in this section have been on fire for eight or ten days doing much damage to timber and other property. The Messrs. Valentine lost about 3000 cords of wood in the mountains near Snow Shoe, besides many others loosing smaller lots.

BAKERY.—H. D. Yerger, at his bakery on Bishop street, is selling bread at six cents per loaf, notwithstanding the rise in flour. He is also prepared to furnish Ice Cream to his customers, of the very best quality. When you want to cool down, go to Harry's and call for the Ice Cream.

DENTISTRY.—Dr. S. Belford, will be in Bellefonte for the next three weeks. We do not believe in miscellaneous puffing; but we must say that Dr. Belford is one of the best Dentists in the county or state. Call and see him. Office upstairs, over the Drug store of Rankin & Co., Allegheny street, Bellefonte, Penn'a.

ALMOST.—The new jail was almost rendered among the things that were a few days ago. A prisoner, who was tired of his cell and of his life as well set fire to his bed, and before the fire was dsscovered, the prisoner was badly burned and the jail was in a fair way to be destroyed. It would have cost the ring a new jail.

RE-ELECTED.—Prof. Magee was re-elected County Superintendent last week by a vote of 88. This is three more votes than he ever received before. The first time he received 69 votes. The second term 85 votes. This term—the third he received 88 votes. Prof. Magee has been a very faithful and efficient officer. The prosperous condition of the schools of Centre county are the best evidence of this assertion.

WELCOME.—We know that the readers of the REPUBLICAN will be glad to hear that Dr. J. D. Wingate will be in Bellefonte, at the Butts House, about the 17th inst. He will remain but a short time. Those persons wishing new sets of teeth should remember this notice. It is not necessary for us to say anything about Dr. Wingate's skill in this neighborhood, where he has lived so long, and built up his reputation.

LIST of Letters remaining in the Bellefonte Post Office, and unclaimed, May 13th, 1872.

Mary Bossahman, R. G. Durham, John Deitzel John Ehgers, John Fasset, Miss Elizabeth Grunden, Mrs. Reichali Glen, R. W. Gilmour, O. P. Hassinger, Mrs. Eliza Karns, Michall Kane, John A. Miller, Miss Eliza Miller, Monsieur Delai Mavechal, F. J. Munter, Calvin Malery, Essington Meirs, Henry Noll, Urilla Perry, Henry Reading, Mrs. Catharine Sharp.

MEAT MARKET.—F. Steinkerchner & Co., the gentlemanly proprietors of the Allegheny street Meat Market, are greatly enlarging and improving their rooms. This they find necessary in order to accommodate their large and increasing patronage. They slaughter none but the best of stock and with the greatest care as to cleanliness, which enables them to offer without hesitancy, a quality of meat, unsurpassed by any other market in this section. They are clever and accommodating gentlemen, and use their utmost endeavors to please their customers. We wish them abundant success.

THE BEAUTIFUL SHORE.

BY REQUEST.

There's a home for the blest on that beautiful shore
Where our trials and cares all shall cease,
Sorrow never shall enter that blissful abode,
Ever there shall abide perfect peace.

CHORUS.

On that beautiful shore where the bright angels stay
All our sorrow and pain will be o'er,
Oh! we long to go home to that beautiful land,
There to rest, sweetly rest, evermore.

The bright streets of that city are paved with pure gold
And its flowers are fragrant and fair
Its inhabitants never grow weary nor old,
For the Lord reigns Eternally there.

There will be no more parting from those that we love,
No more sighing or sheding of tears,
For no discord shall ruffle that peaceful repose,
Which flows through Eternity's years.

Oh, we soon shall be called to that beautiful land,
There to dwell with the just evermore,
Where to join in sweet songs with the friends that we love,
Safe at home on that beautiful shore.

HOTEL.—The people of Centre county are justly proud of their Hotels. The Brockerhoff House is one of our first class houses. The Proprietors, D. Johnston & Sons, have made up their minds to accomodate the traveling public in a satisfactory manner, and at the most reasonable rates. The fact is, the Brockerhoff house under the management of D. Johnston & Sons, is a complete success—one of the best hotels in Central Pa. The boaders, and travelers are entirely satisfied and declare that it is the place for all persons, who are compelled to be absent from home a few days, a week, or even months. We have no hesitancy in recommending this house to our friends.

SODA.—It is a notorious fact that F. P. Green is one of the most scientific Druggists in this country. Frank is a Professional Druggist. He understands the business. He has one of the finest Drug Stores in Central Pennsylvania. We have before stated that he made his reputation and his business by his liberality in the use of printers ink. He deserves to succeed. He has succeeded. He does not need extra puffing now. His pure soda water fountain is now flowing and persons who do not desire to indulge in anything strong should call upon Frank and try his Sarsaparilla Strawberrg &c., &c. Near the Depot in the Bush House Block.

DRY.—It is astonishing howe dry it keeps. We have had no rain of any consequence for weeks. It is ruining the wheat crop, and unless we are mistaking, or unless it rains soon, we will have no corn, potatoes, or other vegetables. We do not, however, desire to write "what we know about farming" nor do we want to find fault, so we will bide our time and hope for the best, and we will ask the farmers of Central Pennsylvania to do the same thing. Remember we have never yet suffered. The good Lord and General Grant will see that the crops and the country continue to flourish.

ROOM No. 6.—J. Zellar & Son, at their Drug Store in room No. 6, Brockerhoff Block, Allegheny street, are doing a splendid business. They have tobacco, cigars and snuff of the best quality and they have this day opened their excellent Soda fountain. What a blessing the soda fountains! How much better and purer than rotgut whisky. If you will drink, gentlemen, stick to the soda. It never kills. J. Zellar & Son, room No. 6, Brockerhoff Block.

THE all-gone feeling which people sometimes speak of, is caused by want of proper action of the liver and heart. These may be assisted, and the bowels regulated by Parsons' Purgative Pills in small doses

CORN and flour are staple articles; but not more so than Jayson's Anodyne Liniment, where known. It is good for children or adults, for any internal soreness of the chest or bowels, and the best Pain Killer prepared, under whatever name.

THE Causes of Temperance finds some of its most insidious and dangerous foes in the many so-called "tonics" and "appetizers," made of cheap whiskey and refuse liquors, finished up to suit depraved appetites, under the name of medicines. DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS are none of these. They are not a beverage, but a genuine medicine, purely vegetable, prepared from California herbs by a regular physician. For all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bladder, skin and blood, they are an infallible and unrivalled remedy. 18-4t

MISSING.—On Thursday morning, 2d inst. John Powers, aged 8 years, son of Rosa Powers, of this city, suddenly disappeared. Any information respecting him will be gladly received by addressing Mrs. Rosa Powers, corner of Third and Centre streets. Other papers will please copy.—Gazette & Bulletin Williamsport, Pa.

THE weather for the past few days has been quite cool.

For the REPUBLICAN

PUBLIC BENEFACTORS.

BY ELIZA.

It is well enough for people occasionally to pause in the busy whirl of life and meditate with regard to the purpose of human existence, and if we can reach any definite conclusion thereupon, to endeavor each for himself to accomplish that purpose. The "Wise Man" of the Bible was permitted to try many experiments in order that he might ascertain the true end of man, and after feasting himself on much that was "variety and vexation of spirit" he announces two alternative conclusions. If it is nothing but living and dying, "Eat drink and be merry," but on the other hand if man is destined to another life and is part of a Great Creator's Work, then his highest happiness will be secured by "Fearing God and keeping his commandments," and these commandments all have in view our duty to our fellows—they require us to spend our lives not in selfish and licentious greed, but in promoting the happiness and welfare of our neighbors.

From such a stand point, how few there are who are living rightly and accomplishing the purpose for which he is permitted to live. From the constancy with which many tug, and toil, and labor in mud, lime, mortar and brick, an observer might be led to conclude that the chief end of man was piling up brick. Then again many other callings in life, which if not equally beneficent are pursued with equal avidity by many who would feel indignant were they to be denied the character of "Public Benefactors"

But when we meditate seriously on the manner in which their lives are employed, we are puzzled to discover whence can flow the public benefit and are frequently led to inquire cui bono? The dealer in intoxicating beverages, for example. He who spends his life in poisoning the very life blood of his fellows, robbing them of reason, depraving their hearts, filching, their earnings impoverishing their wives and families, and bringing their victim to shame, disgrace and ruin! And looking upon his accomplished shame pointing the finger and saying what a pity! What corresponding benefit do these men do the world? Would the world not be infinitely better without them? Who dare say Nay?

Then there is another class, ordinarily of higher tone, but we humbly conceive of equally small positive good if not as much public harm. They are a class of cold-blooded, systematic, selfish, shark-like beings who ensconce themselves in brick houses on street corners, where they can see both ways and watch for their game, who provide themselves (or pretend to) with a supply of something they call money; and then take advantage of the necessities of their fellow men, by loaning them money at ruinous rates of interest, and calling it "accommodation," until in course of time they have swallowed up the houses and farms of their customers, and are prepared to turn them and their families out of doors for their improvidence.

What corresponding good do they do more than the liquor sellers? Who ever knew them to give anything for any benevolent or charitable purpose, unless it was done in such a way as to win the praise of men, or build for themselves, soft cushioned churches where they have opportunity on Sunday, to display their Phariseeism? They persistently refuse to "accommodate" their fellowmen when they are really in need, and "paper" in which they exclusively deal, is not good for their favor unless plastered over with three, four or a half dozen lawyers of "A No. 1," securities.

Very accommodating indeed. And the writer, whenever she sees their sleek faces, swelling out with fatness at the corner windows is constrained to exclaim, "Public Benefactors!" But we will leave these in the hands of an appreciative public who knew well how to feed them and reciprocate the benefits that flow from them.

Another large class of mankind are engaged in putting men's quarrels into technical shape—sharpening their edges that they may cut well, or in the study of such musty books of lore as will enable them best to understand how to instruct those who patronize them in the art or snarp dealing with their neighbors. What good in this? Were it not infinitely more beneficent to make peace among men, to be engaged in teaching honesty, honor, and fair dealing and preserving neighborly love and confidence? But we are told that as the world is now constituted, lawyers are a necessary evil. We have frequently studied on that proposition, and are compelled to say that we cannot see it in "them lamps." If there were no educated lawyers to aid men in either the perpetuating or settling of their difficulties, men would be reconciled to one another, without coming to the judgment seat, and the money spent in making lawyers and judges rich, might be appropriated to feeding, clothing and warming the poor.

In the next place, a considerable portion of mankind are devoting their time to preparing beautiful orations and ornate addresses, with which to entertain an audience of fashionable hypocrites consisting mostly of the aforementioned classes, who come together on the first day of the week commonly called Sunday, formally and ritualistically to see and be seen. These in order to appear religious, usually take some words of Scripture which they call a "Text" as the pivot around which their performance must turn. No matter whether the text consists of enough words to express a single idea or not, or whether the composition relates to it afterwards, only so there is enough to stamp it with sacredness in the eyes of men. These people call themselves "Preachers;" but they are as far from being like unto the preachers whom Jesus Christ sent out into the world as Heaven is from Hell. The latter went about among the poor, the needy, the wicked, teaching the great truths of Time and Eternity, giving alms, doing good, relieving distresses. They took no pocket book along to get filled in return for their eloquence. They craved no man's money nor raiment nor houses, and feared not to declare the whole counsel of God. The former—our modern text-orators—do nothing of the kind, they indulge in unmeaning platitudes, and empty sounds teaching high sounding theories, keeping up hypocritical distinctions among men, and instead of binding up the broken hearts of their fellow men, they help to crush them, by coldness and uncharitable judgment, if not by actual unkindness. Oh! for some of the preaching that would teach us to "Love not in word neither in tongue, but in deed and in truth."

Next week the medical fraternity and some others will hear from your correspondent if she receives your favorable consideration.

A REBEL TREAT.

The Lynchburg Republican—a first-class rebel organ—after a hearty endorsement of the "liberal" movement to defeat Grant, closes with the following pleasing threat:

The people see danger in Gen. Grant. They know full well that another four years lease of power would lead to unbounded arrogance and usurpation, which would carry with it the essence of civil war. They would avoid this emergency. They would remind him that danger is to be estimated not by what breaks out of the public mind, as Carlisle would say, but by what stays in it. Instead of attempting to cure the disease of violence and blood letting, they would take away the cause which produces it. You may stifle the voice for a time—the warning rattle may be paralyzed for a season, but a brave people, educated to liberty, will not much longer submit to the dictates of a master.

It wont be the first time that these Southern gentlemen saw danger in Gen. Grant. Lee saw considerable danger about the time he came down under the apple tree at Appomattox. If these "liberal" individuals are impatient for blood letting they had better attempt another confederacy before November next. But we rather incline to the belief that they are quite satisfied, and that all they now want is to accomplish at the ballot box what they failed to accomplish on the field. If these fire eaters will practice reform on themselves; drop the Ku-Klux foolishness, and try to earn an honest living, we can then listen to their suggestions for reform in the nation. Just now it comes in bad grace from them.

GREAT FIRE AT SOMERSET—LOSS ONE MILLION DOLLARS.

SOMERSET, PA., May 10.—A fire broke out at 3 o'clock, P. M., the wind blowing a gale. In twenty minutes fifty houses and blocks were in a blaze. Six squares in the heart of the town are gone, embracing one-third of its area, but two-thirds of its value.

The Glade, Ross and White Horse Hotels, every business house, store and shop, both banking houses, both printing offices, and every lawyer's office, the Postoffice and United States Assessor's office, the Presbyterian and Lutheran Churches, and the Masonic, Odd Fellows' and Templars' Halls, the Telegraph and Express offices, and over thirty dwelling houses.

Fifty families are homeless. The loss will be about one million dollars, on which there is an insurance of about seventy-five thousand dollars.

—Coffeyville, Kansas, aspires to be a manufacturing place, so it proposes to cut a canal of a mile and a-half, across a five-mile bend of the Verdigriss river, which will give the village a fall of water of twelve feet, which it intends to use as a power to run the machinery of the factories.

—Golden, Col., has a brick manufactory that made 2,000,000 bricks for the use of that place, this spring; and Denver is boasting over a furniture manufactory. Breed & Cutters Reduction Works, of Caribou, have turned out 37,000 ounces of silver since the first of January.

—Since the death of Beckett, the recluse, who purchased the Bonaparte estate at Bordentown many years ago, the grounds which during his life time had been closed to strangers, have again been opened to the public as they were during the residence of Louis Bonaparte.

IOWA, NEBRASKA, KANSAS, CALIFORNIA.—Advertising alone does not produce success. The thing which is advertised must have intrinsic merit, or else large advertising will eventually do it more harm than good. If you have anything which you know to be good, advertise it thoroughly, and you will be sure to succeed; if it is poor, don't praise it, for people will soon discover you are lying.

Such is the policy of the BURLINGTON ROUTE, which runs to three great regions in the West: 1st, To Omaha, connecting with the great Pacific Roads. 2d, To Lincoln, the capital of Nebraska, and all that beautiful region south of the Platte, filled with R. R. lands and homesteads 3d, To St. Joseph, Kansas City and all Kansas points.

The roads are splendidly built, have the best bridges, finest cars, the Miller platform and coupler, and the safety air brake (to prevent the loss of life that is every where else happening); Pullman's sleepers, Pullman dining cars, large and powerful engines (to make quick time and good connections), and are in a word the best equipped roads in the West. So that if you desire to go safely, surely, quickly and comfortably to any point in Southern Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, or on the Pacific Roads, be sure that you go "By Way of Burlington."

All who wish particular information, and a large map, showing correctly the Great West, and all its railroad connections, can obtain them, and any other knowledge, by addressing General Passenger Agent, B. & Mo. R. R. R., Burlington, Iowa. 14-3m.

—The crops throughout Western Tennessee are suffering from drought.

—It is probable the oil regions will be well represented in the Democratic Convention at Reading. The Oil City Register says arrangements are making for a special train to convey the Democrats to the meeting, to urge the nomination of Gen. McCalmount for Governor.

—The Bedford Press says that Hon. John Cessna is likely to be the choice of Bedford county for Congress. The Chambersburg Repository rather strongly intimates that the Republicans of Franklin county prefer some other man.

—Travelers says that Dublin is at present the dullest and most posaic city on the other side of the Atlantic. The Chief Justice of Ireland manages to live, however, very comfortably on his salary of $25,000 in gold.

—The London Court Journal gives with its customary elegancce of tone and langugage, a long description of a gorgeous reception in New York, which nobody in New York ever heard of.

A GENTLEMAN in Chester county has a pocket-book which he used continually for fifty years. It was presented to him by an aunt when he was a boy.

CAUTION.—The public are respectfully cautioned against purchasing watches purporting to be of Elgin manufacture from parties not known to them, as reliable and responsible dealers.

The Excellence and good repute of the real Elgin Watches, has caused Foreign and American manufacturers to make inferior imitations, with the same or similar trade-marks as ours. These watches are being placed upon the market by unscrupulous traders, and in many cases by dealers who advertise American Watches at low prices, and make their profit by supplying, when considered safe to do so, the imitation movement. Avoid dealers who advertise cheap goods and sales upon the C. O. D. plan.

Demand in all cases the certificate of the National Watch Company, signed by T. M. Avery, President, as to genuineness of the watch purchased.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A CARD.—We take this method of saying that there is no truth in the reports that have been circulated, "that we intend quitting the coal business as soon as our present supply is sold out." On the contrary we have on hands now and intend to keep on hand a well selected stock of the best Anthracite coal in the market.

DOCTOR, WHAT IS IT?

Is a question frequently asked by a patient who, though perhaps not sick enough to be confined to his room or bed, nevertheless feels himself physically unable to attend to his usual avocations.

There is a failing or general breaking down of the system, but no symptoms sufficiently marked to be classed as a disease, yet peculiarly trying to the sufferer. The feelings cannot be expressed—Doctors don't understand it; they may prescribe hopefully, yet blindly, and without result. MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS is the best Remedy for these nameless disorders. TRY IT AND BE CONVINCED! Sold by all Druggists. Price One Dollar per Bottle. 18-5t.
